Seven-Months-Old Baby Critically Injured, 5 Others Hurt In Crash

Collision Occurs At Beulah Heights Crossing on Rt. 45

A seven-months old baby was injured critically and five other persons suffered injuries in a two-car crash on Route 45 at the Beulah Heights crossing last night.

State Policeman Guthrie Alexander said the crash involved cars driven by Franklin Sisky, 21, of 704 South Ledford street, Harrisburg, and Harold S. Burton, 30, of Paducah, Ky.

Critically injured was the Burton baby, seven-months-old Billie, taken to the Ferrell hospital in Eldorado, where it was stated he had suffered a basal skull fracture.

Also at the Ferrell hospital are Burton, who suffered two deep lacerations in his back; and two other children: Johnny Lee Burton, three and a half years old, who suffered a severe laceration of the mouth; and Harold S. Burton, 30, of Paducah, Ky.

Sisky and his companion, John Maddox, 20, of 31 Shaw street, Harrisburg, received treatment for their injuries and were released. One person, Burton's wife, was not injured in the crash.

Alexander said that Sisky was driving his automobile toward Harrisburg and Burton and his family were going toward Eldorado and the crash occurred when Burton turned left into the path of Sisky. Mrs. Burton was in the front seat holding the baby when the crash occurred.

The Burtons were going to Eldorado to visit Mrs. Burton's sister, Mrs. Everett York. Their address at Paducah is 1217 South Seventh street.

Sex Deviate, 18, Admits Killing Student Nurse

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (UP)—An 18-year-old sex deviate once accused of being a "peeping Tom" broke down under questioning today and confessed that he strangled and raped a pretty young student nurse at Kalamazoo State Hospital Friday night.

State Police Capt. Clarence Miller said the inmate, Louis Smith, 18, admitted the killing shortly before he was to have taken a lie detector test at State Police District Headquarters in nearby Paw Paw.

Smith said he lured his 19-year-old victim, Marilyn Kraai, Holland, Mich., into the basement of the Kalamazoo hospital by asking her to get his playing cards from the locked hydrotherapy room.

Looped Tie Around Neck
"The room was locked and she was the only one who had the keys," state police quoted Smith. "I followed her down the stairs and was seized with the urge to attack her sexually."

After ravishing the girl's body in a basement waiting room, Smith said he flushed the keys down a drain and dragged her into the hydrotherapy room.

Smith said he saw Miss Kraai sitting at her desk in a first-floor lobby of Michigan's oldest mental institution while he was walking back to his room after supper. He said she readily consented to help him retrieve his playing cards.

While he was following her in the darkened basement, Smith said, he took off his necktie, stole up behind the nurse and looped the tie around her neck.

A search was started for Miss Kraai when she failed to keep a dinner date with two companion nurses later in the evening. Faint white scuff marks made by white shoes led alarmed hospital authorities to the hydrotherapy room where the body was found.

OIL REPORT: Four Producers During Week, Two in Eldorado, Two in Long Branch Townships

By JERRY ROBERTSON
Tri-State Oil Reporter

There were two producers in Section 20 of Eldorado township and two in Section 35 of Long Branch township during the week ending Nov. 4.

They were the Humphrey-Tremont Beulah Heights school community No. 1 and the John Stelle Associates' Seagraves community No. 2 in Eldorado township.

Wife Thanks Voters For Defeating Mate

NORTHAMPTON, Mass. (UP)—Mrs. Victoria Renshaw bought a newspaper advertisement Friday to thank voters for defeating her husband, Edwin, who ran for state representative in Tuesday's voting.

"Now he can stay home to mind his business—his window-cleaning business," she said.

SIU Trustees Approve $52.2 Million Budget

CARBONDALE, Ill. (UP)—Southern Illinois University trustees have approved a budget request of $52,204,000 to operate the university and construct new buildings and facilities in the 1955-57 biennium.

The board of trustees met Friday and approved a budget of $16,500,000 for educational operations and $35,704,000 for buildings and other capital improvements.

The educational operations budget is $8,117,600 more than the current appropriation and is based on a 52 per cent enrollment increase in the current biennium.

Present full-time enrollment is 4,500. SIU officials expect 5,500 students in 1955 and 6,500 in 1956.

Priority rating was given to 11 buildings to cost $30,060,000 and to site improvements and completion of the life science building and the new library costing $1,255,000.

Buildings given priority were: Agricultural group, dormitories, men's physical education and community center, home economics group, college of education, commerce general classrooms, power plant addition, administration health unit, student union, communications, and industrial education.

Other budget requests cover land acquisition, remodeling old permanent structures, conversion of temporary buildings to classrooms and offices, a fire alarm system, food storage, revamped sewer system and other campus improvements.

With only seven of the state's 9,775 precincts missing, Wright had 1,636,378 votes to 1,630,702 for Democrat David F. Mallett.

The missing precincts were in normally Republican Cook County suburban areas.

The latest figures included official canvass results from more than 80 of the 101 counties outside Cook.

The United Press was continuing to poll official canvass figures except in Cook County, where the massive vote was not expected to be canvassed until next week.

Mallett has asked investigation of possible vote frauds in Boone, Du Page, McHenry and Kane counties. His aides have also asked for a look at vote tallies in Adams, Lake, Winnebago and Jo Daviess counties.

Wright himself claimed victory, saying that a private tally gave him the contest with a margin of more than 6,000 votes.

Eleanor Roosevelt Escapes Injury as Kleig Light Explodes

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt escaped injury, but film actor Humphrey Bogart was cut on the head and in the face when a movie Kleig light blew up on a studio set and splattered glass.

The former first lady was visiting the movie set of "Desperate Hours" at Paramount Studios Friday and talking to Bogart, the picture's star, when the heavy light blew up.

Studio officials said the widow of the late president was spared serious injury because her back was turned to the light.

Wright Appears Winner in Treasurer Race

CHICAGO (UP)—Republican Warren Wright appeared likely today to win the tight race for state treasurer.

Sen. Ferguson Predicts One Week Senate Session

WASHINGTON (UP)—Sen. Homer Ferguson (R-Mich.) optimistically predicted today the Senate can wind up its McCarthy censure session in a week's time if all members will stick to the subject.

Ferguson's prediction was the shortest yet made by a key senator of either party on the length of the session which opens Monday on the resolution calling for the censure of Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy. Some leaders think the session may last for several weeks.

Ferguson, chairman of the Republican Senate Policy Committee, said his prediction was based on the hope that all senators would confine their remarks on the censure issue. From past experience, this appeared unlikely.

Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland (Calif.) was expected to confer today with Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson on details of plans for the censure session. They were expected to try to work out an informal agreement to limit the debate to the McCarthy censure resolution.

Knowland predicted earlier that the session would run a "minimum of two weeks."

State Dep't Ducks Demands Of Ousted Davies

WASHINGTON (UP)—The State Department today ducked demands of ousted career diplomat John Paton Davies Jr. that it publish the record of his case, including a recommendation that the United States seek a "preventive showdown" with Russia.

Davies was fired Friday by Secretary of State John Foster Dulles on grounds he lacked "judgment, discretion and reliability" necessary for his high diplomatic position. Davies immediately said he would not contest the decision but wanted the full record of his case published.

A department spokesman said it has been past practice in such cases not to make the records public.

He also declined to say what, if any, part Davies' 1950 recommendation of a "preventive showdown" with the Soviet Union played in his firing. It was presumed Davies in his hitherto unknown proposal had urged steps that might lead to a "preventive war," something President Eisenhower has strongly opposed.

Davies, a central target of Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.), had undergone eight previous loyalty-security investigations and been cleared each time.

Dulles said Friday that a special security hearing board reached the unanimous decision in the latest investigation that "the continued employment of Mr. Davies is not clearly consistent with the interests of the national security" and he agreed.

Dulles said that neither he nor the board found Davies to be disloyal "in the sense of having any Communist affinity or consciously aiding or abetting any alien elements hostile to the United States." But Dulles said "it is not enough that an employee be of complete and unswerving loyalty. He must be reliable, trustworthy, of good conduct and character."

Not Eligible For Pension

The 46-year-old diplomat, a veteran of 23 years in the Foreign Service, is not eligible for a pension because he has not yet reached the retirement age of 50. Experts said he likely will get back contributions he has been making through the years toward such a fund.

Barkley Sees Cooperation by Ike, Congress

PADUCAH, Ky. (UP)—The nation's most experienced freshman senator sees no reason why a Democratic Congress and a Republican president can't cooperate for the good of the country.

That's the opinion of Alben W. Barkley, who will be sworn in next January as Kentucky's "junior" senator, even though he has behind him 22 years of service in that body, plus four years of presiding over it as vice president of the United States.

Traditionally, junior senators are introduced to the upper house by their senior colleagues, but it scarcely will be necessary for Sen. Earle C. Clements (D-Ky.) to introduce the junior senator from Kentucky.

He thought the Republicans' loss of the congressional majorities was due to many things, which could be summed up as "disappointment of the people in the administration."

Historic Session Will Begin Monday

McCarthy Concedes Final Censure Vote After Bitter Debate

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Senate meets in an historic session Monday to open debate on the most serious challenge yet to the stormy political career of Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy.

Debate will center on a formal resolution, backed by a special committee report, which if approved will put the Senate on record as formally disapproving the conduct of the Wisconsin Republican.

McCarthy has conceded in advance that the Senate will finally vote to censure him. But the debate may be long and bitter. His friends estimate he will get about 19 votes.

The furor started last June 11, when Sen. Ralph E. Flanders (R-Vt.) walked into the Army-McCarthy hearing room and within camera range served personal notice on McCarthy that he was about to become the target of a Flanders speech on the Senate floor.

A few hours later, Flanders proposed that the Senate strip McCarthy of his committee chairmanships until the Wisconsin Republican "purged" himself of his refusal to testify before a 1951-52 Elections subcommittee which investigated his finances.

Five days later, Flanders said this idea had failed to catch on in the Senate and announced he would ask the Senate to censure McCarthy instead.

On July 30 the Senate began debate on the Flanders resolution. It appeared doomed, because it gave no reasons for censure; but Flanders and Sens. J. William Fulbright (D-Ark.) and Wayne Morse (Ind.-Ore.) filed 46 charges against McCarthy to back up the resolution.

Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland proposed on Aug. 2 that the issue be referred to a special six-man committee for study. The Senate approved this idea, 72 to 12.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon three days later named these senators to the committee: Arthur V. Watkins (R-Utah), Francis Case (R-S.D.), Frank Carlson (R-Kans.), Edwin C. Johnson (D-Colo.), John C. Stennis (D-Miss.) and Sam J. Ervin Jr. (D-N.C.). Watkins was elected chairman.

Two Weeks of Hearings

The committee held hearings from Aug. 31 to Sept. 13. It heard 13 witnesses, including McCarthy, Brig. Gen. Ralph W. Zwicker and Broadway columnist Walter Winchell.

Knowland announced Sept. 24 that the Senate would return Nov. 8 after the election—to debate the report.

The committee issued a unanimous report Sept. 27. It recommended that McCarthy be censured on two counts:

1. That his conduct toward Zwicker was "reprehensible."

2. That his conduct toward the Elections subcommittee and a member, Sen. Robert C. Hendrickson (R-N.J.) was "contemptuous, contumacious and denunciatory, without reason or justification, and was obstructive to legislative processes."

On three other charges the Watkins committee scolded McCarthy but did not recommend censure.

Twin Boys Born Six Days Apart

OSHKOSH, Wis. (UP)—Twin boys born six days apart were both reported doing well Saturday.

Mrs. Vincent Panske, 18, gave birth to the first twin, Guy, last Saturday night.

His brother, Gay, arrived yesterday morning.

Dr. Frederick Brei, who delivered the boys, said he had not had time to check just how rare the occurrence was, but that it was most unusual.

"There were no complications," Brei said. "But I got gray hair."

Guy, who weighed four pounds, 11 ounces, and Gay, who weighed five pounds, 9 1/2 ounces, were Mrs. Panske's first children. The father is a cook at Winnebago State hospital.

About Town And Country

By TIMOTHEUS T.

I had an idea for today's column but decided against it.

Noticed when Gov. Stratton, the state's GOP standard bearer, commented that he thought the Republicans did "real well" in the Tuesday election.

Now what I was going to do was this: I was going to be a sort of impartial reporter and go to each of the five Republican candidates and ask them what they thought of Gov. Stratton's statement.

But the columns of The Daily Register are limited and I decided against it.

But here is something I want to get into today's effort. I missed at least one important item that was destroyed in the garage building fire the other morning.

It was a 1927 Ford coupe that had been purchased and restored by Richard Harold and stored there for the winter. Richard is a teenage youth, son of Mr. and Mrs. N. E. Harold Jr.

He bought the car, which was in very bad shape outside of five good tires and restored it with his earnings and time (approximately two and a half years) along with work in the auto mechanics class in Harrisburg high school.

What do you call those things the Indians play in India when the coiled snake raises up and bobs and bobs its head?

I wish I had one and could learn to play it in ten easy lessons because I'd like to try it out on the latest addition to our "We Grow 'Em Odder Department."

I went out on West Barnett street yesterday afternoon (1229) to see Jake O'Toole's sweet potato. It was quite a saccharine tuber. Yep, it sure was.

This fancy specimen of Mr. O'Toole's was all coiled up like a snake. It was unbelievably real.

What will sweet potatoes think of next?

A passing comment. Work is still going along nicely on the factory buildings and on the Lake Harrisburg project.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY
I know that my Redeemer liveth, and that he shall stand up at the last upon the earth.—Job 19:25.

Some scholars think Job the oldest book in the Bible. That this prophecy was spoken before the alphabet was invented. Faith in that redeemer indeed saves us from our sins.

HUSKING CHAMP—John Gibson displays his corn-husking form after winning the hand-picking contest at the St. Joseph, Mo. jamboree. He hasn't had a shucking hook in his hand since 1944, the last time he won the contest. Farming 600 acres, 200 of which are corn, Gibson has been using a corn-picking machine.

Fall Planted Forest Seedlings Withstand Drouth

CARBONDALE, Ill.—Farmers planting forest tree seedlings this fall should get the job done by the middle of November for best results, says John Hosner, Southern Illinois University forestry instructor.

Seedlings planted in the fall will get a better start and be able to withstand more severe summer drouths, he says. However, there is one disadvantage to fall planting, he points out. There is always the possibility of winter losses of seedlings from frost heaving and winter burning.

Greatest losses from frost heaving occur on open land; hence fall plantings survive best where there is a moderate cover of weeds and grasses such as broom sedge or prairie grass.

Seedlings for forest plantings may be obtained from state forest nurseries at comparatively low cost and local farm foresters will advise farmers about planting, Hosner says.

Farmers who have young forest plantations in which the planted trees are not receiving direct sunlight because of overtopping vegetation should remove the brush that is shading planted trees. Overtopping often occurs where farmers plant seedlings in fields containing sassafras and persimmon cover. As long as the majority of the planted trees are as high or higher than the surrounding vegetation, there is no need to remove it even though the seedlings may seem to be crowded. With some direct sunlight they will continue to thrive.

Vinedale, a new variety of sweet pepper, gave good results in the 1954 vegetable variety tests at Southern Illinois university. Its high yield and fine flavor make it a good possibility for area home gardens. However, the fruit of the plant is not considered blocky enough for a good commercial market pepper.

Late fall grazing sometimes is needed to reduce the competition of summer grasses with cool season legumes. However, regular legume meadows should not be cut for hay or pastured between late September and the first killing frost. Nearly a month is needed for the plants to grow out and build up root reserves of food for winter survival.

Soil tests of legume or legume-grass meadows are important to determine fall fertilization needs. Top-dressing such fields in the fall with 200 pounds per acre of 0-20-20 or 0-15-30 fertilizers, according to needs, will increase forage production.

Earnings in agriculture fluctuate more widely from year to year than in most other lines of business.

Farms with limited capital ought to concentrate on enterprises which have a rapid turnover, or those giving large labor incomes. Poultry, dairying, and swine are good enterprises for such farms.

The damp litter season is coming for poultrymen. The chief cause of damp litter in laying houses is the condensation of moisture from the air. Proper ventilation is helpful for control.

Sparrows, pigeons, and rats are unwanted nuisances around poultry houses. Proper control measures should be taken by the poultry flock owner.

On the dairy farm the milking machine is only as efficient as its operator.

Some 200 corn picker accidents in Illinois may be prevented if the operator will just keep his hands away from moving parts and will keep the safety shields in place.

It is also a good idea to equip the tractor with a fire extinguisher for emergencies. There always is the chance that the machine will catch fire. The most practical kind of extinguisher is the carbontetrachloride type in one or two-quart sizes.

Protection from fires and grazing is essential in developing successful forest plantations.

Broiler producers, allow three-fourths to one square foot of floor space per bird to market age. Producers who will allow only half a square foot generally find that production costs are higher and disease outbreaks more frequent.

Clipping the flanks, tail and udder saves work in preparing cows for milking. It may also reduce the sediment in milk and help to lower the bacteria count.

Leo R. Fryman, extension dairyman at the University of Illinois College of Agriculture, lists these five steps for clipping a dairy cow:

1. Clip the tail and bob the switch so that it clears the ground about four inches. Clip the tail head and area around the base of the tail.
2. Clip the entire surface of the udder.
3. Next clip the belly and hocks. Then make a "mark line" from the navel to the thurl on both sides. Do this by holding the clippers on edge, with the bottom blade toward the cow's head.
4. Clip the flanks and thighs by running the clippers up from the hock to the "mark line."
5. Clip up the backbone to help control lice.

Clipping is not a substitute for washing the cow's udder before milking. Even when cows are neatly clipped, the udder and teats should still be washed carefully with water and a chlorine solution before putting on the milking machine. Washing not only helps to produce clean milk, but stimulates "let-down" so that the cow can be milked faster.

DOUBLE DUTY — Politician-farmer Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., gazes wistfully at the $85,500 Hereford bull at a public auction in Romeo, Mich. The sale was held to clear a 2,500-acre farm in order to make way for a Ford Motor Company proving ground.

Study New Corn Harvest Method

The newest method of harvesting corn is under intensive study this fall by a team of researchers from the University of Illinois College of Agriculture.

They are studying the operations of 100 farmers who use field picker-shellers, and dry and store shelled corn. They want to find out how profitable the operation is, how much it costs, how efficient it is, how the machines are being used, how the shelled corn is being handled and how practical the method will be for other farmers.

A report will be available well ahead of the 1955 harvest.

On the team are John Wills, farm economist, and George Pickard and Deane Carter, farm engineers. They visited the 100 farms before harvest. And during the harvest season they are revisiting 30 farmers for as long as a day each to study such things as field losses from shelling, time it takes to do the job and efficiency of operation.

Although picker-shellers have been on the market for several years, they are not used widely, and this is the first comprehensive study to be made of them.

Researchers see at least four advantages to picker-sheller dryer operations. You can pick corn early if you dry it artificially and thus avoid some field loss from snow and rain.

You can sell it earlier and have it meet moisture requirements for No. 2 corn.

You can cut down on storage loss because it's easier to rat-proof a shelled-corn bin than an ear-corn bin.

And, finally, if you need more storage, it's cheaper to build it for shelled corn than for ear corn.

One big question still to be answered, according to Wills, is how to dry the corn. You can speed up drying by using more heat, but if the temperature is too high the corn will be damaged to a certain extent for milling. Some mills, he says, won't buy farm-dried corn.

Wills thinks that drying is going to require testing for moisture, especially if the corn is sold. He recommends bringing the moisture down to no lower than 15 percent if you plan to sell the corn. If you store it for very long, it will need to be drier—about 12 percent moisture, he says.

Cut Dahlia Stalks After First Frost

URBANA—When you dig your dahlias this fall, store them so that you can grow your own plants from the ones you have.

J. R. Kamp, horticulture specialist at the University of Illinois College of Agriculture, suggests that you cut dahlia stalks after a hard frost has blackened the tops.

Leave only a few inches of the basal stem. Wash the soil off the roots, and let them dry thoroughly for a few days before you put them into dry sand, peat or vermiculite for winter storage. Kamp recommends a storage temperature of 40 to 50 degrees F.

The specialist explains that although the thick, fleshy roots of dahlias are full of stored food they are unable to start a new plant unless buds develop. These buds will grow on the old stem in spring.

Easiest way to propagate dahlias, Kamp says, is to cut the root clumps apart as soon as the buds appear. Leave one bud to each root section.

If you want more plants, start watering the root clumps and take them to a warm, light place in late February or March. The buds will develop shoots which you can cut from the root clumps after the leaves have developed.

Put the shoots in moist sand until they have grown roots. Then handle them as you would any other young plant. The rooted cuttings will grow into fully developed plants by next fall, and you can again store the root systems over the next winter and repeat the cycle.

This sale is open to any 4H boy or girl with a fat steer project who wants to enter and market projects under more favorable conditions. Box lunches are served by the Evansville Chamber of Commerce to the club members and their leaders.

Farm Census Brings Records Up to Date

The Bureau of the Census brings the nation's farm record book up to date in October and November with the 1954 Census of Agriculture.

Agriculture economists at the University of Illinois College of Agriculture report that during November and December the 1954 farm census will get records of production, take inventory of farm resources and record major items of farm income and expenses. The economists point out that, just as individual farmers have to keep records, the government and various organizations need records on U. S. farming operations.

Farmers often compare items of income and expense from their own records with averages of such items from group records to find out how they can improve their own operations. Census figures by counties offer farmers statistics for groups against which they can compare some of their own figures.

One way in which the census records are used is to answer questions about production. The economists say, for example, that if Uncle Sam wants to know how much oil seed he has and how much oil he can produce from seed crops, he turns to his census farm record book.

The 1954 farm census questionnaire has a section on crops harvested this year. It will help to answer the oil seed question in the future. Answers to questions on land use will also help determine how much oil seed U. S. farms can produce.

The Census Bureau has taken a farm inventory every five years since 1920. Between 1850 and 1920, the inventory came every 10 years. The bureau urges farmers to cooperate with census takers this year—to keep records up to date, complete and accurate.

October Rainfall Normal in Area; First Since 1949

CARBONDALE, Ill.—The month just ended is the first October since 1949 in which a normal rainfall has been measured in the Carbondale area, Dallas A. Price, Southern Illinois university geographer, said today. The October rainfall was 3.72 inches.

Particularly welcome for farm pasture and meadow crops, lawns, and farm and city water supplies has been the way in which the moisture fell, Price pointed out. Measurable amounts of rain fell on 12 of the month's 31 days, coming in three periods. These were October 5-7, 12-17, and 25-30. On two days rainfall of more than one inch was recorded. Precipitation on October 5 was 1.54 inches, October 12 it was 1.08 inches. Snowfall was observed on October 29 and 31 but was not sufficient for measurement.

Carbondale readings generally have been representative of the southern end of the state this year. Price said. October readings in recent years have been: 1953—2.25 inches; 1952—1.16; 1951—3.00; 1950—1.00. In 1949 October was a wet month with 6.3 inches of rain recorded. The wettest October in recent years came in 1941 when the month had 8.45 inches of rain, nearly a fifth of the normal year's quota. The driest October came in 1924 with only two-tenths of an inch of rainfall.

Price said that since last March the monthly rainfall has been nearly normal. However, water reserves in the ground have not yet been replenished because of two years of dry weather during which rainfall was subnormal. Southern Illinois counties were more fortunate in normal rainfall this summer than were central and southwestern Illinois counties.

GET MEAT TYPE HOGS

The quickest way to get meat-type hogs is to buy a meat-type boar now to sire your spring pig crop.

Dick Hollandbeck, livestock specialist at the University of Illinois College of Agriculture, says more and more topnotch hog farmers are swinging to meat-type hogs for two main reasons: they are more economical to produce than the average hog, and the packers are starting to pay higher prices for them because housewives want the leaner cuts of pork.

Hollandbeck points out that you don't have to depend on any one breed, cross or blend for your meat-type boar. Meat-type hogs are found in every breed, every cross of breeds and every blend.

Your farm adviser can help you locate herds of meat-type hogs in your county.

A knot is a unit of speed equal to one nautical mile, or 6,080 feet, per hour.

Materials that would be used during this week and stressed "tag" day which will be held Saturday, Nov. 20.

It was morning. Taxis swished through Central Park South, their windshield wipers moving like meteorological pendulums beating time for the rain. Water dripped down the nose of the statue in front of the Plaza and on William Shakespeare, standing on his ballet dancer legs in the Mall in Central Park.

Farther inside the park something momentous was happening. Anyone braving the wind and the rain would have seen the earth crack. And through the crack there emerged the first yellow crocus. It was spring.

Some five blocks to the east, on the right side of the city but the wrong part of the right side, a bell shrieked in the apartment and Greg awakened frowning, resentful at being wrested from his dream. The silent guardian inside his mind, which made him look up from his newspaper at the right subway station and aroused him a few seconds before the alarm went off on week days, reminded him that it was Sunday morning and there was no need to hurry. But Greg was hounded by a relentless conscience that stalked him like an FBI man pursuing a criminal. From morning to night it prodded at him, sneered at his accomplishments, questioned his motives, believed the worst of him.

As his sleepy lids half closed, his conscience shook him firmly by the shoulder, reminding him that, after all, he had not checked on the time. He might be sleeping away half the morning and, as his stepfather had pointed out for the past dozen years, there was nothing more demoralizing for a healthy young man than Loafing in bed. The energetic Man Went Up-Up-Up. The Apathetic Man Went Down-Down-Down. Greg's stepfather might not express himself in headlines but he always talked in capitals. Greg dutifully reached for his watch, holding it close to his eyes because the room was dusky. Twenty minutes of 9.

The bell rang again and Greg swung his feet off the studio couch and into his slippers, groping for his robe. While he punched the button in the kitchenette that released the bell in the downstairs hall, he ran his fingers through his hair and tied the robe around him. March 30. It was his birthday. Perhaps his mother had remembered. After all, she remembered quite often. And once she had even come to the apartment to see what sort of "atmosphere" he preferred to his stepfather's house in Montclair.

Greg went back to the living room and took a quick inventory, regretting that it was too late to make up the studio couch. He made an effort to see the place as it looked to his mother, although he knew from her silence on that visit that she resented the shabbiness, the secondhand furniture, the Venetian blinds that shut out the light but not the sound of the Third Avenue elevated. It reminded her of the old days, before she had become Mrs. Horace Crain, when she had been Millicent Seaver, married to Greg's father.

Compared with the 20-room Queen Anne house in Montclair, it was nothing to boast of, but he liked it because he had found it himself, bought his own furniture, paid his own way.

Feet climbed the fifth flight of stairs at the plodding gait people always reached at that altitude, and someone knocked heavily. Greg opened the door. A panting messenger grunted, "Some climb! Are you Seaver?" At Greg's nod he thrust into his arms a basket covered with cellophane and tied with a mammoth bow of red satin ribbon. "Watch it, Bud. The thing weighs a ton." He leered. "She must like you."

Greg, clutching the ornate basket with both hands, nudged over the sill the bulky Sunday paper that lay outside his door. He eased the basket onto the coffee table. Through the cellophane he could see the labels on the bottles: port, sherry, burgundy, Rhine wine, champagne, Imperial Tokay. An envelope was tucked under the broad satin ribbon.

"Happy birthday, dearest boy. You'll find a little booklet in the basket telling you the proper temperatures for serving the wines. Don't throw it out. Little items like these are important for a man to master. They tell people so much about his background. Mother."

Greg slipped the note back into its envelope and, after a nudge from his conscience, pulled out the booklet on wine and laid it on top of the newspaper beside his easy chair. He told himself loyally that it was a lavish gift; probably cost as much as he earned in a week. The fact that he did not like wine was not important. After all, his mother was trying to give her son some social polish.

While he waited for the coffee to perk he took a shower and shaved, squinting at his face in the mirror. With a face like that, he reflected, one could commute on the same train, month in and month out, and be practically invisible. In fact, that had happened to him during the years when, to please his mother, he had lived at his stepfather's house in Montclair. Now and then, he was introduced to men who were familiar to him because they took the 8-11 in the morning. There was never any recognition in their faces.

"Gregory Seaver?" they would say. "Oh, Horace Crain's stepson."

No one ever needed to ask who Horace Crain was. Crain's Canned Cornbread was served up on the billboards of the nation as a tasty substitute for the scenery they concealed. It was the subject of a singing commercial on the radio which ingeniously introduced the voice of a can opener. The man who thought of that was now high in his agency and generally regarded as being well on the way to a dazzling future. Horace Crain was only waiting for an equally worthy vehicle to present his product to the television audience, having discovered what a nuisance it is to turn off a commercial on the screen.

In the company of his vigorous, dogmatic stepfather and his absurdly young and decorative mother, Greg felt like a mongrel, vaguely apologetic for getting in the way. He supposed he must be like his father, who had not fitted in anywhere either, and who had not, in Horace Crain's capitals, Made the Most of His Opportunities.

Greg was afraid of the future. In fact, Greg was afraid of a great many things. Life itself was a wary business of walking a tight-rope, expecting at every moment to lose one's precarious balance. The only safety lay in following the rules, in doing what was expected.

He set the basket of wine bottles on the floor to make room for his breakfast tray and reached for the first section of the Sunday paper. The booklet on serving wines tumbled into his lap. For a moment Greg flicked the pages; then he made the first rebellious gesture of his life. He tore the booklet in two.

"I don't like wine," he said aloud, defying his lurking conscience.

'Pioneers for Christ' Rally at Eldorado Nov. 13

Rev. James G. Johnson of the American Sunday School Union announces that a new organization has been adopted into its work which is known as "Pioneers for Christ." Already throughout America hundreds of young people have responded and are active members of P.F.C.

Many states have conducted rallies with great success. For the first time in Illinois
the new Lakes District Superintendent,
Dick E. Winter of Chicago and the following missionaries of Illinois, Wilfred H. Young, Rockford, Leroy Cunningham, Mt. Vernon, Fred G.
Attig, Murphysboro, James G.
Johnson, Eldorado, plan to conduct a state-wide rally. It will be Saturday, Nov. 13, at the Bixler school near Eldorado.

The rally will begin at 10 a. m.
with a devotional message by Milton Cox, high school teacher. This will be followed by a lively presentation of P.F.C. by Dick E. Winter. Sing times are scheduled throughout the day with the young people taking an active part. One of the highlights of the day will be a panel discussion by the missionaries on "Living and Witnessing in the Christian Life." Class periods for the various ages of 13 to 20 both in the morning and afternoon. A hot meal will be served in the school dining room by the school cook.

In the afternoon will be devotional message given by a local pastor, Rev. Robert Tabb. Leroy Cunningham will direct the interest in Special Projects for P.F.C. and Wilfred H. Young will preside over the young people's question
box. There will also be singing testimonies and special musical features and recreation. The afternoon session will close with a surprise feature, "Through the Eye Gate."

The evening meal will be in the form of a wiener roast followed by a Fagot Service. The rally will

Bull Dogs Beat West Frankfort, 12-0

JOE DORRIS, Harrisburg end, went through some fancy stepping to catch the forward pass (above), which gave Harrisburg its second touchdown in its 12 to 0 win at West Frankfort last night. Both feet were off the ground, as can be seen, when Dorris grabbed the ball and pulled it down for the six points. The pass had been thrown over the line by quarterback Charles Polk. Closest Frankfort player to him was J. Burton (58), right halfback.

Centralia Humbles Mt. Vernon, 39-0; East St. Louis Wins 29th in Row SPRINGFIELD (UP) — Sterling and Onarga ran into tough old foes who dropped them from the thinning ranks of Illinois' unbeaten and untied prep football teams Friday night.

Sterling was tied by Mendota 14-14, and Gilman's Owls dumped Onarga, winner of 12 straight, 40-20.

Other unbeaten, untied squads, among the 17 entering weekend play, which won their games included Centralia, Charleston Eastern, East St. Louis, Shelbyville and Wheaton.

The rampaging Centralia Orphans of the Storm humbled Mount Vernon 39-0. Centralia, undisputed champ of the South Seven, now has romped to 312 points in eight games while limiting opponents to 26.

East St. Louis' Flyers, which will meet the Orphans to end somebody's winning streak Nov. 19, clubbed Granite City 46-13 for No. 29 victory in a row.

Charleston Eastern, headed for a title in its final Eastern Illinois Conference race if it can beat upset-minded Casey next week, walked over Longview ABL 45-6 for its eighth victory of the year.

Caterpillars Win World Amateur Basketball Title

RIO DE JANEIRO (UP) — Coach Warren Womble hailed his victorious Peoria, Ill., Caterpillars as a "great team" today but predicted Brazil's swift although smaller team "will be a factor in the 1956 basketball tournament of the Olympic games."

The taller United States representative won the world amateur basketball tournament with a 62-41 triumph over Brazil Friday night, clinching a sweep of all its round-robin final round games. The U. S. team surged off to a 35-19 half-time lead and never was seriously threatened.

The Philippines gained third place in the tournament by beating Uruguay, 67-63, and China downed Israel, 51-28, for fifth place.

Bob Baker Wins Decision Over Jimmy Slade

PHILADELPHIA (UP) — Big Bob Baker of Pittsburgh, turning over a new leaf, joined the line outside Rocky Marciano's throne room today after a sparkling, unanimous decision over slipper Jimmy Slade of New York.

"I think Nino Valdes should fight me to decide who meets Marciano," the 28-year-old Baker said. "I beat Valdes already in Huntington, W. Va."

Baker, ranked seventh before Friday night's bout with the sixth-rated Slade, revealed that his triumph was fashioned from two months of intensive training, one of his most serious preparations in years.

"I worked hard for this fight, the 211-pound Baker said. "I did two months of roadwork alone. I even boxed with light heavyweight Joey Maxim to get me set for Slade."

Warren Named Acting Dean by SIU Trustees

CARBONDALE, Ill. (UP) — Fount G. Warren, chairman of Southern Illinois university's education department, has been named acting dean of the SIU college of education.

The SIU board of trustees appointed Warren Friday to the post held by Douglas E. Lawson since 1948. Lawson asked to be relieved of the post to devote full time to teaching and research. Warren has been on the SIU staff since 1913, longer than any other faculty member.

The board of trustees also appointed Harry B. Bauerfeind, supervisor of business training in the university's division of technical and adult education, assistant dean of adult education effective Dec. 1.

In other action, the board appointed these two new instructors for the technical and adult education division:

William Rice, Elizabeth N. J., will supervise the university's new wood products pilot plant to be located near Carverville in cooperation with the U. S. Forest Research Center here.

Paul J. Loughey of Belleville, who had been senior draftsman in the SIU architectural services since 1952.

The trustees approved a $1 hike in student fees effective in the spring term to increase student hospitalization benefits. SIU students recently voted for the fee increase.

Locals Stay in Running for Second Place in South Seven

The Harrisburg Bull Dogs, playing very good ball the last half, defeated the West Frankfort Red Birds, 12 to 0, on the Frankfort field last night to stay in the running for second place in the South Seven football conference.

The locals made a touchdown in each of the halves, but they looked much more like a football team on offense the last two quarters as the Frankfort boys kept handing chances to the Bull Dogs to score early in the game until Coach Lawrence Caluffetti's boys finally did.

However, in the last two periods the locals rolled up enough yardage to score more than they did, their last-half touchdown coming at the end of an 86-yard drive that followed the downing of a West Frankfort punt on the H-14. Six consecutive first downs preceded the scoring play, a five-yard pass from Charles Polk to Joe Dorris.

Frankfort made four first downs, three in the first half and one the second. Coach Bob Colborn's charges made but a net 20 yards rushing as they accumulated 60 yards and were thrown for losses totaling 40 yards. They made 48 yards by passing to give them 68 yards from scrimmage. The Frankfort county boys connected on four of 11 passes for 48 yards and had two intercepted. Their penalties totaled 20 yards.

At the outset of the game Frankfort moved from its own 24 to its 41, where the Bull Dogs recovered a fumble. The locals couldn't gain any ground until the W-15. After a 12-yard run took the ball to the 27 there was another fumble and the locals recovered on the W-30. Then started a drive which ended on the W-6 when a first down was about a foot short for the locals.

But on the next play Frankfort fumbled again and Harrisburg recovered on the 14, from where Beal made his touchdown from the 8.

That ended any offensive movement until late in the second quarter when Harrisburg racked up four straight first downs in moving from the H-11 to the W-43.

The third quarter saw the sustained local drive that took the ball 88 yards for the second tally with Wright, Beal and Trammel all moving well and one pass, Polk to Eddie Seright, figuring in the drive that put the ball on the five, from where Polk passed to Dorris for the tally.

Benton Here Thursday

The Bull Dogs continue to dominate the game during the last quarter but did not score.

Caluffetti started Seright and Jim Williams at ends, Fred Kinnaman and Ken Price at tackles, Jim Durham and Jack Dale at guards, Ron Williams at center, Polk at quarterback, Wright and Trammel at halfbacks and Beal at fullback. Hess played all the time and McKenzie most of the time on defense. Other boys seeing action were Dorris, Wayman, Hefner, Everett Evans and Jay Waite.

Frankfort started Morrison and Cina at ends, Patterson and Bill Burton at tackles, Woods and Boren at guards, Wendryhoski at center, Griffin at quarterback, Doty and Jerry Burton at halfbacks and Farley at fullback.

Officials were Ernie Reynolds of Carverville and Louis Vicieli and James Wilkinson of Carbondale.

Thursday afternoon at Taylor Field will be the time and place of the closing game of the season for the Bull Dogs. Ralph Davison will bring his Benton Rangers to Harrisburg for a game that likely will determine the second place winner in the standings.

Galatia Grade Five Defeats Carrier Mills

The Carrier Mills grade school cagers dropped a 19-16 decision to Galatia Thursday night. The game, a Midget conference affair, was played on the winners' floor.

Galatia trailed at the quarter, 6-5, led at halftime 9-8, was behind 14-13 at the three quarter mark, then won 19-16.

Carrier Mills took the preliminary game 26-19.

This was the second league game for Carrier Mills, giving it a 50-50 record. In an early season game Carrier Mills beat Muddy 37-28.

Next Wednesday Morrisville travels to Carrier Mills for a loop contest.

Shawneetown, Cave-in-Rock, Vienna Win

Shawneetown, Cave-in-Rock and Vienna opened their 1954-55 basketball seasons last night with victories in Greater Egyptian conference play. Shawneetown romped to a 73-49 decision over Equality while Vienna throttled Ridgeway 54-43.

At Cave-in-Rock, Ridgeway's invading Eagles battled on near-even terms with the host club until the final three minutes. Coach Al Penman's cagers led 11-8 at the quarter and trailed only 24-23 at the half and 36-35 after three quarters.

Loss of Pat Drone via personals in the final quarter hurt Ridgeway's efforts. Gene Lane scored 20 points to lead the Rivermen. Cave also won the preliminary, 39-49.

At Shawneetown, the powerful Indians swept into an early lead and then held their county rivals at bay the remainder of the game. The Indians led 22-13 at the quarter and 36-19 at the half. They held a 50-35 edge entering the final canto.

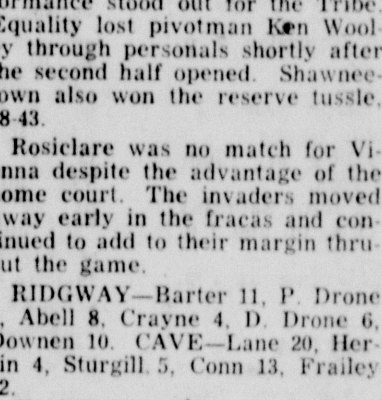

Bobby Spotsville's 28 point performance stood out for the Tribe. Equality lost pivotman Ken Woolley through personals shortly after the second half opened. Shawneetown also won the reserve tussle, 68-43.

Rosiclare was no match for Vienna despite the advantage of the home court. The invaders moved away early in the fracas and continued to add to their margin thru the game.

Eagles Beat Marion, 14-6, For Fifth Win

Teams Battle To Scoreless First Half Play

The Eldorado Eagles racked up victory number five last night, beating Marion 14-6 in a game played on the losers' gridiron.

This was the best Eldorado-Marion game in years. On many occasions in the past Marion has failed to show enough to make the game interesting but last night it was a different story.

Marion, coached by Charles Matheu, former Eldorado high school star lineman, played an alert game, both on offense and defense.

In first downs Eldorado had 14 and Marion 13. It was that close a game.

The teams battled to a scoreless first half, with Marion putting up a gallant goal line stand early in the second quarter to keep Eldorado from cutting.

After the two teams had battled to a stand-off in the opening frame, Eldorado threatened in a hurry as the second period started.

Intercept Pass

Eldorado took the ball on their own 39 yard line and moved to Marion's five, with a 41-yard gallop by Gwaltney eating up most of the distance.

With a first down and five yards from a score, Eldorado found the Marion line equal to the occasion. Vogel picked up two yards on the first try, but the next three efforts resulted in no gain and Marion took over to start a drive.

With Kleinman, a hard driving fullback, carrying the brunt of the offensive, Marion moved along to Eldorado's 32.

The drive was halted when Potts, Eagle back, intercepted a pass and ran it back to his 35 yard line. Neither team made a serious bid the remainder of the quarter.

Early in the third quarter Eldorado scored with Potts going over from five yards out.

Score in 11 Plays

Marion kicked off to start the quarter and Eldorado scored in seven plays. Lovellette, who alternates between the line and backfield, carried on four plays and gained 25 yards. Sutton came up with some necessary yardage and Clark tossed a 35 yard pass to Stroke during the drive.

After Potts cracked over for the TD, Sutton ran for the point and the Eagles led 7-0.

Marion came right back with a TD, with a 20-yard Wall to Anderson pass being the best gainer. Kleinman did most of the gaining on the ground and Wall scored on a quarterback sneak. The point try failed.

Midway in the final frame Eldorado again scored, with Potts getting his second TD of the night. Gwaltney ran for the point.

Marion's last scoring effort was snuffed out when Bob Laffoon, Eagle center, intercepted a pass as time ran out.

Play Fairfield Thursday

Eldorado went through the entire game without a fumble—something the team hadn't accomplished previously this season. Coach Al Adams gave several players a chance at backfield play and everyone came through nicely.

Vogel, Stroke and Potts teamed up with quarterback Clark in the starting backfield, and throughout the game Lovellette had various opportunities and the two seat-backs, Sutton and Gwaltney, thrilled the crowd with some beautiful broken field running.

Eldorado plays at Fairfield Thursday night.

Starting offensive lineups—Eldorado: Lyon and Whittier, ends; Putnam and W. Laffoon, tackles; Lovellette and Roberts, guards; B. Laffoon, center; Clark, quarterback; Potts and Stroke, halfbacks; Vogel, fullback. Marion: Moake and Brown, ends; Mitchell and May, tackles; Deaton and Wade, guards; Lee, center; Wall, quarterback; Jackson and Anderson, halfbacks and Kleinman, fullback.

Two Killed, Four Hurt in Crash

SPRINGFIELD (UP) — Robert Schnepf, 42, and Francis M. Walker, 42, both of Springfield, were killed and four other men were injured Friday night in a two-car collision at a highway intersection near here.

The injured, all treated at St. John's Hospital, were Air Force Sgt. Lawrence Greenwood, 22, Flora, Ill.; Airman 3-C John Woolheiser, 20, Jersey City, N. J.; Walter Littrell, 30, Springfield; and George Van Leer, 28, Springfield.

Police said one of the airmen was driving one car and Littrell the other. All the airmen were stationed at Scott Air Force Base.

Joe is Wooing Marilyn; Friends Say No Chance

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Joe DiMaggio is trying to win back Marilyn Monroe but so far, their friends said today, he's failed and "he doesn't stand a chance."

Since Marilyn was granted a divorce Oct. 27 on grounds Joe was "cold and indifferent" to her famous charms, the Yankee Clipper has been trying to mend his ways and talk her into resuming their relationship.

Marilyn finished work in her movie, the "Seven Year Itch," and planned to enter Cedars of Lebanon Hospital Sunday night for a minor gynecological operation Monday morning.

Dr. Leon Crohn, who had revealed a month ago that the operation was coming, said that Marilyn would stay in the hospital until Thursday. Friends of Joe speculated he probably would visit her in the hospital.

Her friends say Marilyn is "willing to listen" and "there's a possibility" she may not even pick up the divorce decree when it becomes final in a year.

But the majority of observers on the Monroe-DiMaggio combination think the famous pair will not be sharing bed and board again, at least, not for a long time.

Marilyn admitted she has seen her former husband but insisted "We're just friends and I hope we always stay friendly." She said there was "no chance of a reconciliation."

RIGHT IN THE HOLLOW OF YOUR HAND

That's where the well-being of your family rests. You want to give them every comfort and convenience in your power. You want to keep them well-fed, well-clothed, and well-housed.

You want them to enjoy every advantage of modern science—through electricity, telephones, movies, radio, and television. Nothing, you say, is too good for those you love.

Of course, then, you'll want something more. You'll want your family to possess that exhilarating and priceless quality known as spiritual well-being—a conviction that God is the Supreme Being in the world.

With this faith your life will abound with hope and you will experience a sense of true security in these uncertain times. To God your destiny is of utmost importance.

Through prayer and regular worship you will find a haven of protection for all your family—right in the hollow of God's hand. Go to Church Sunday.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should join the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For the sake of his community and nation. (3) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to Bible daily.

'The Splendor Of Self-Control'

Proverbs 14:29; 15:1-3
GOLDEN TEXT: "He that is slow to anger is better than the mighty; and he that ruleth his spirit than he that taketh a city."

INTRODUCTION — The things learned in childhood are the making of adulthood. We are told that things learned in infancy affect the individual in the later part of life. Therefore it is well that self-control be learned early in life.

When the Apostle Paul appeared before Felix, it was self-control that he used for his sermon subject. Felix failed to answer Paul's plea. Today's lesson teaches self-control of temper and abstinence from alcoholic beverages. We would do well to answer Paul's plea for self-control. There is something splendid about the person who commands control of self.

1 CONTROLLING OUR SPIRITS (14:29; 15:1-3)

Anger has its proper place. Jesus became angry when he observed immoral practices. He exercised righteous indignation when he saw men misusing the truth against other men. He never defended himself, but he always defended others whom he knew to be right.

We live in a day when men must be men, and right must be defended. We should be ashamed to remain silent in the presence of evil. When others trample on sacred things, our righteous indignation should be aroused.

Righteous indignation and the flare of an angry temper are two entirely different things. There can be a serene self-control with righteous indignation. Angry temper knows no self-control. Anger coming from one person stirs up anger in others. When this happens among Christians, the cause of Christ suffers. We are admonished in 4:27; 15:1 and 16:32, "to be slow to anger, to have control over one's spirit, to give the soft answer, which turns away anger." These verses speak for themselves. The most effective way to meet an angry person is not with anger, but with a quiet, peaceful response. He cannot meet or defeat that.

II CONTROLLING OUR CONDUCT (20:1; 23:29-35)

Here the scripture deals with intoxicants. Surely no problem faces us in America with quite the impact of this problem. We are actually in danger of seeing the destruction of our country because of this condition. Men are not only selling their souls into eternal hell because of liquor, but they are selling our beloved country "down the drain." We face serious danger at this point. The liquor industry has done a marvelous job with their propaganda. It seems that they have no concern for the individual, his family and very little for the "land we love."

CONCLUSION: The picture of the alcoholic, or the man with the "hangover" in 23:29-35 is most striking. We need to show our boys and girls the end product of alcohol before they ever begin to even take their first drink. We should make every effort to combat this terrible evil. Let us begin by exercising self-control and by totally abstaining from the use of alcoholic beverages.

Remember there is something splendid about the person who can control self.
